Sasol hedges about 30% (oil equivalent) of its South African synthetic fuels production

Sasol has entered into hedging transactions (zero cost collars) for 16,425 million barrels of oil (equivalent to about 30% of its planned South African synfuels production) for the remainder of the 2009 financial year.

The hedge will provide downside protection should monthly average dated Brent crude oil prices decrease below US$90/ bbl (put level) on the hedged portion of synfuels production. Conversely, Sasol will incur opportunity losses on the hedged portion of production should monthly average oil prices exceed a volume weighted average US$228 / bbl (call level). The hedge has been executed over a four week period (commencing at the beginning of the new financial year, 1 July 2008) and due to the volatility of the oil price, call levels between US$195 / bbl and US$253 / bbl were attained.

Similar to the synfuels hedge Sasol also entered into zero cost collars for 550 000 barrels of oil for its Sasol Petroleum International's West African crude oil output (representing about 30% of planned net output for financial year 2009). The levels attained were a put level of US$90 / bbl and a call level of US$240 / bbl.

Sasol considers oil price hedging on an annual basis as part of its risk management activity. In the light of very volatile oil prices, Sasol believes that the hedge that has been entered into will mitigate the risk of any substantial fall in oil prices.

Appropriate disclosure of these instruments will also be made in our 2008 annual financial statements and Form 20-F.

Sasol may, in this document, make statements that are not historical facts and relate to analyses and other information based on forecasts of future results and estimates of amounts not yet determinable. These are forward-looking statements as defined in the U.S. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Words such as "believe", "anticipate", "expect", "intend", "seek", "will", "plan", "could", "may", "endeavor" and "project" and similar expressions are intended to identify such forward-looking statements, but are not the exclusive means of identifying such statements.

By their very nature, forward-looking statements involve inherent risks and uncertainties, both general and specific, and there are risks that predictions, forecasts, projections and other forward-looking statements will not be achieved. If one or more of these risks materialize, or should underlying assumptions prove incorrect, actual results may be very different from those anticipated. The factors that could cause our actual results to differ materially from the plans, objectives, expectations, estimates and intentions expressed in such forward-looking statements are discussed more fully in our registration statement under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 on Form 20-F filed on 21 November 2007 and in other filings with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission. Forward-looking statements apply only as of the date on which they are made, and we do not undertake any obligation to update or revise any of them, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.
